Asiza means 'Forest Spirit' which is perfect for a wolf name because they are endangered and are keystones of their habitat making them important guardians of our world.

Obol

I chose this name Obol because while I was researching I found that Lobo is wolf in Spanish. I chose to put the name backward because in my opinion when animals are dying every thing seems backward, and yes these wolves are dying. This wolf should have a meaningful name that truly shows itself. Over the years I have learned to LOVE wolves.

And I have learned lots about them, but I have only heard about the Mexican Grey wolf a few times. Surprisingly I have heard Lobo quite a little bit. The wolf I'm naming is probably cute (like all wolves) and the name Obol is cute.

And that is why I chose the name Obol for this new pup.

Paprika

I chose this name because I love wolves and I also love Mexican Paprika spices! This is a picture of a wolf I drew. I love wolves so much. I collect everything wolf and visit a wolf conservation here in the UK.

Mexican Gray Wolves grow long, strong limbs, causing them to be very fast. 'Rapido' is Spanish for 'very fast' or 'swift', which would be the perfect name for the endangered Mexican Gray Wolves. If a Mexican Gray Wolf pup was named Rapido, I'd prefer it to be male, but I wouldn't mind if it was a female. Rapido would be extremely fast, but he/she might be smaller than the others. Rapido wouldn't give up to show who's boss, though. Rapido would love to play games and win them, though that would be hard to do. In conclusion, I would name a Mexican Gray Wolf pup Rapido because Mexican Gray Wolves are known to be very fast and long-limbed. Run, Rapido! Ar-ooooooooo!!!!

Rascal

Because wolf pups, especially male ones, are funny, silly, competitive, playful, like to attack, clever, sweet, and like adventures.
