

Join Lobos of the Southwest's Tucson Pack and help save the endangered Mexican gray wolf!

17 years after they were reintroduced, Mexican gray wolves, aka lobos, number only 110 in the wild, making them one of the world's most endangered wolves.

Arizona's native lobos need your help now to survive multiple threats to their continued survival and recovery.

If you are ready to join with fellow Tucson wolf supporters to help turn the Mexican wolf program around, please join us on:

Tuesday, Sept. 15, 6:00-7:30 pm
100 N. Stone Ave.

Refreshments will be served.

For more information or to RSVP, email
info@mexicanwolves.org

Since 2009, Lobos of the Southwest/mexicanwolves.org, has been at the forefront of efforts to restore Mexican wolves to their essential natural role.

Learn more at www.mexicanwolves.org

